Landlife's Legacy

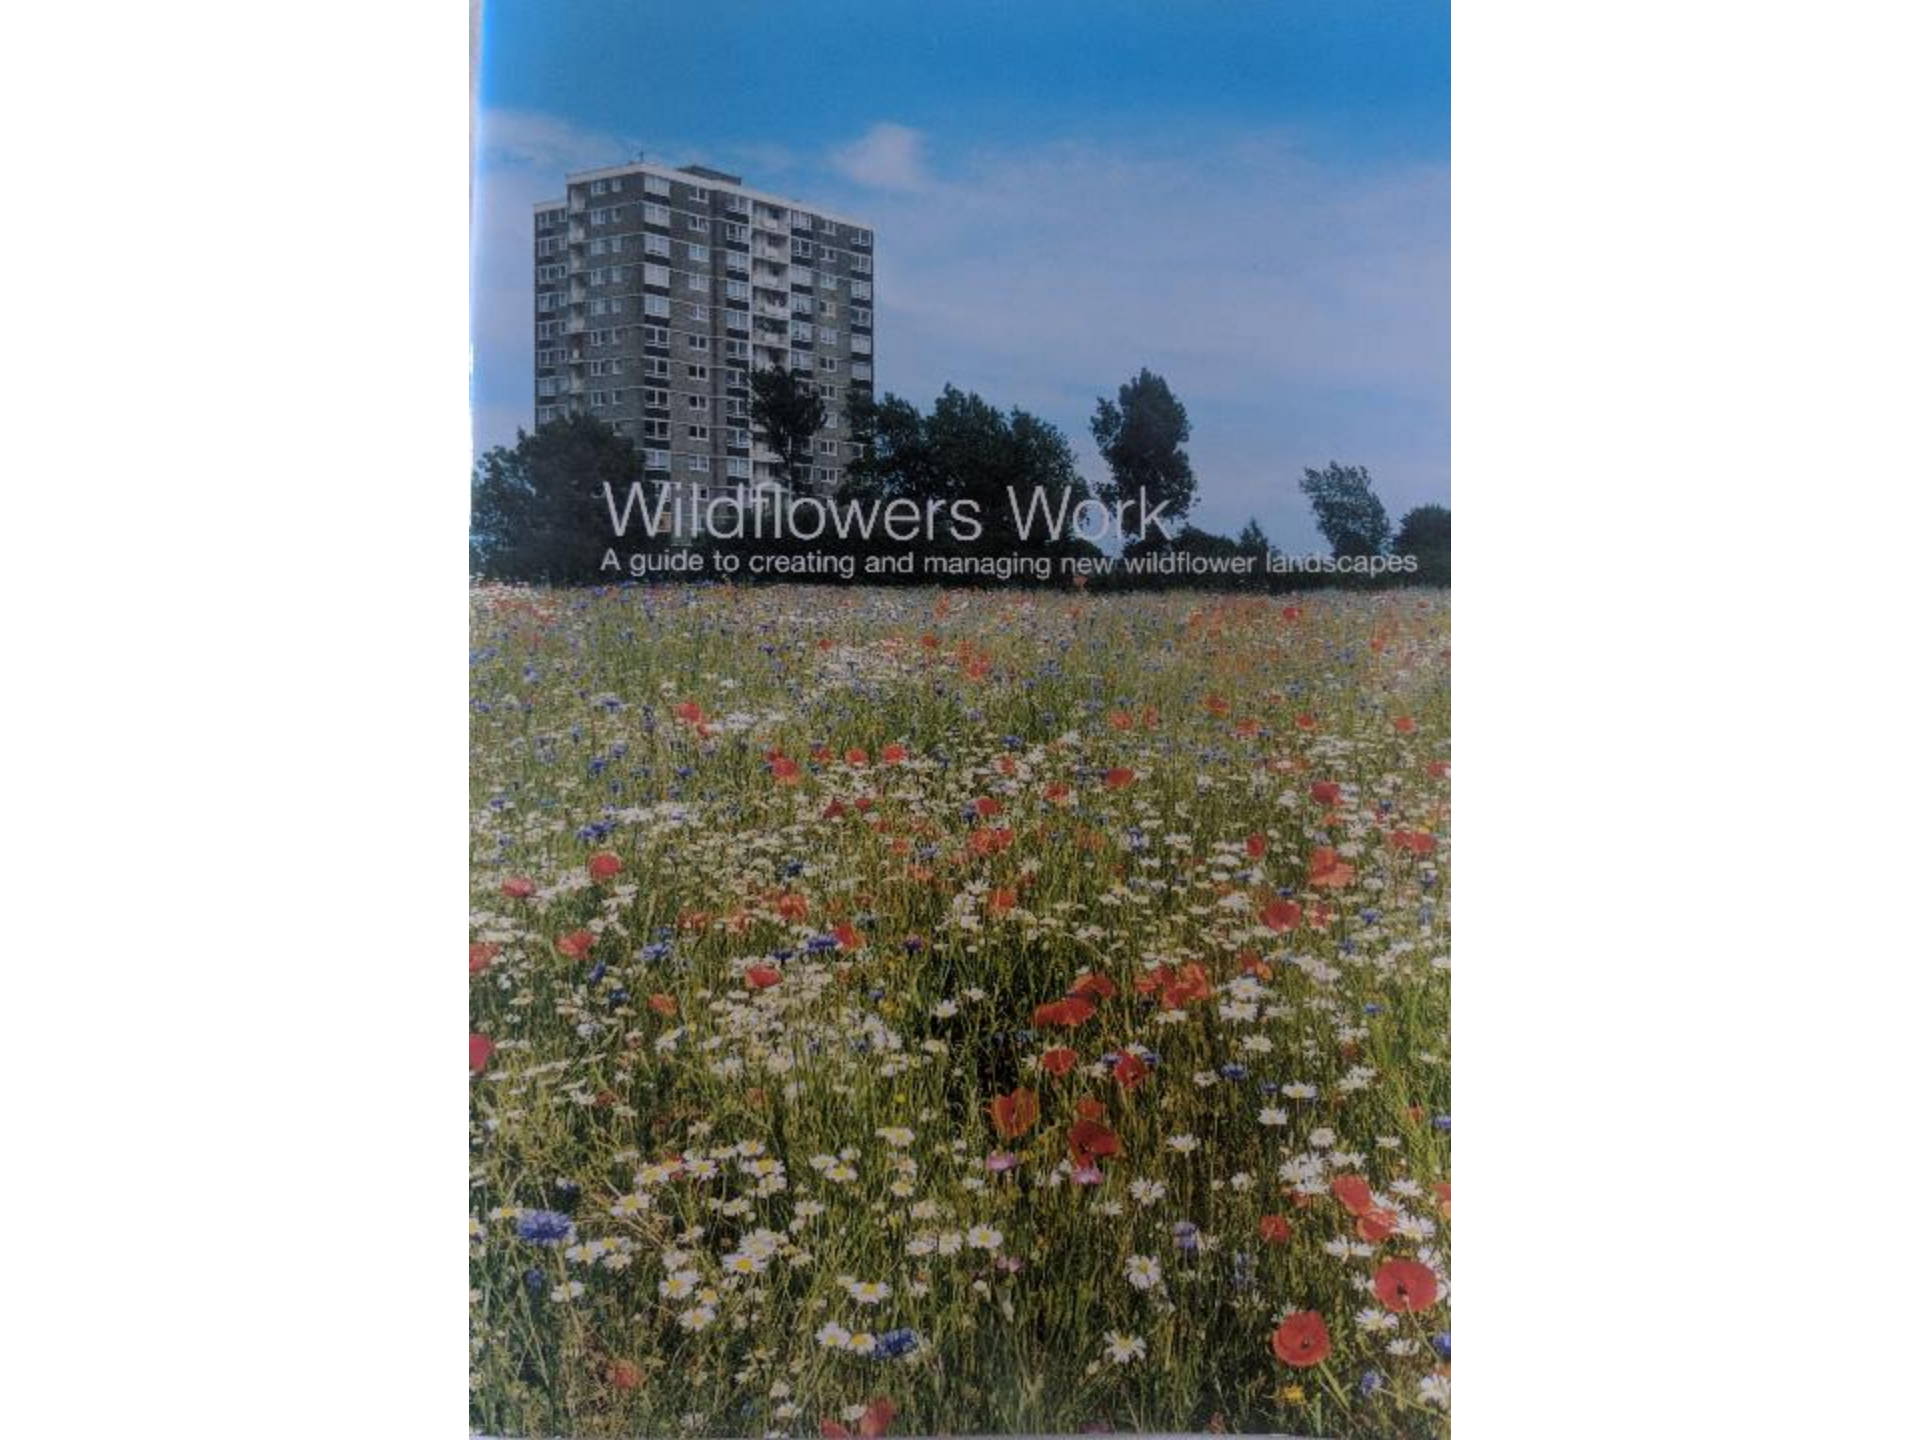

Richard Scott:
National Wildflower Centre

Nature still draws a crowd

The image shows a tall, grey, multi-story apartment building with many windows and balconies. In the foreground, there is a lush field of wildflowers, including red poppies, white daisies, and blue cornflowers. The sky is blue with some light clouds. The text 'Wildflowers Work' is overlaid on the image in a large, white, serif font.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times

In 2014 this project won the Kew Grow Wild England Flagship Award with 20,000 votes rallied from across the North West and as far afield as China to create wildflower landmarks and send out signals for a more biodiverse and colourful world.

Protecting the environment is a job for all of us. The decisions we all make have an impact on our environment. We want to help everyone feel more connected to the environment and able to take better-informed decisions to protect and improve it. In doing so, everyone can understand the value that it
